Louise Cranmer

Type of governor: Co-opted Governor – appointed January 2018

Occupational background:

I qualified from University in 2002 with a BA(QTS) with subject specialism's in Geography, ICT and Mathematics. I taught for 11 years in a mainstream school where I was lucky enough to teach from Nursery up to Year 5. I then moved on to a resourced provision attached to a mainstream school where I taught children with a wide range of Special Educational Needs. After 3 years, I moved to my current role in a SEN school (within the same federation) which specialises primarily with children with Autism.

Special Interest areas:

I have a particular interest in Special Educational Needs, Early Years and the use of outdoor areas in education.

About me:

I enjoy being part of Sutton-at Hone School and feel it is very important to encourage links between the school and local community. I am focused and committed in supporting the school to ensure all children reach their potential. It is vital that children are able to celebrate their successes across the curriculum both in and out of school. I feel passionate about ensuring that our children enjoy school and are challenged by an exciting, engaging and broad curriculum.

I currently have 3 children at the school in years 2, 5 and 6 which I feel enables me to see the school and new ideas from a range of perspectives.
